

Retainer-Based Business Development Support

a flexible model to get your team the support you need

1

the work seems endless

Whether it's due to a hiring gap, parenting leave coverage, or just too much for your team for a season, your team has a consistent need for new business support for three or more months.

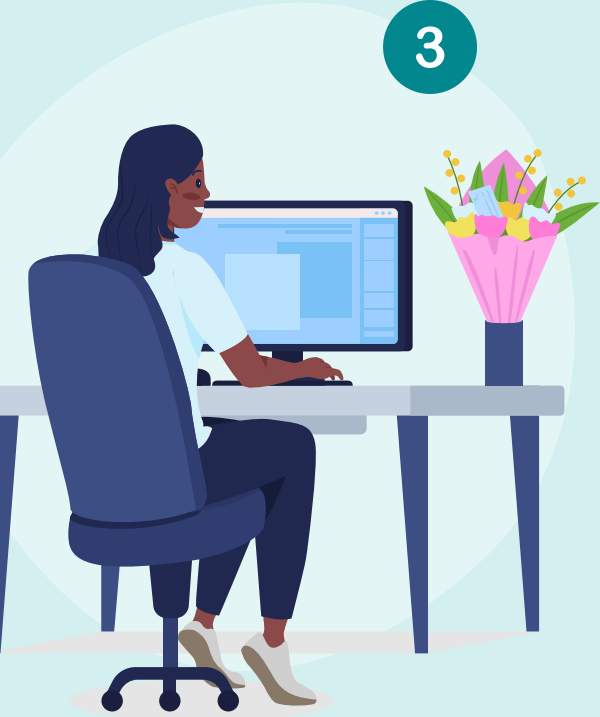

discover what support makes sense

Hop on a call to talk through your needs directly with the Bid Boss founders to determine what type and level of support is right for your specific gaps.

2

3

meet your retainer manager

This single point of contact checks in with you weekly to provide updates on progress, track your changing needs, and help you prioritize! Their role is to ensure that your team is getting exactly what you need.

4

access the whole Bid Boss team

Your needs will vary. Need a specific donor expert? Done. Want some targeted capture support? On it. Your retainer manager will identify and manage the right members of the Bid Boss team to support exactly what is most urgent and important.

5

win more, without the burnout

We know your bottom line is important and moving fast is key. Retainers offer a guaranteed number of consulting hours, plus the ability to flex that amount to meet your needs for surge support if everything hits all at once.